Work-based Learning 2

November 2021

Scope: Contemporary Research Topics, Otago Polytechnic Press.

Otago Polytechnic Ltd is a subsidiary of Te Pūkenga - New Zealand Institute of Skills and Technology

Scope Contemporary Research Topics (Work-based Learning) focuses on contemporary research in assessment of prior learning, learning in, for, and about work, and professional practice. It is concerned with critical debate about practice, theory, and history, and their relationships as manifested in the experiences of learners, practitioners, and researchers in work-based learning and professional practice. ISSN 2703-6227 (Print); ISSN 2703-6235 (Online)

Scope Contemporary Research Topics series are open access journals and can be accessed at www.thescopes.org; ISSN (for hardcopy version) 2703-6227; ISSN (for online version) 2703-6235; © 2021 the authors; © illustrations, the artists or other copyright owners.

Submissions for Scope (Issue No. 3) are invited under the theme 'working around'. Our professional practice-based theme is open and ambiguous since it allows us to address the numerous 'work arounds' that the age of Covid-19 have hoisted around researchers and practitioners alike in professional practice. It talks to innovations or pivots in research and workplaces alike. It also implies that work is all around us in the world of professional practice, and enables us to explore round about our work and practice to find the spaces where it meets enquiry, research or scholarship.

Formats include: editorials, articles, perspectives, essays, research notes, and work in progress. Other formats will also be considered.
